From: UNIFORMITY WITH GOD'S WILL by St. Alphonsus de Liguori

At death all our hope of salvation will come from the testimony of our conscience as to whether or not we are dying resigned to God's will. If during life we have embraced everything as coming from God's hands, and if at death we embrace death in fulfillment of God's holy will, we shall certainly save our souls and die the death of saints. Let us then abandon everything to God's good pleasure, because being infinitely wise, he knows what is best for us; and being all-good and all-loving -- having given his life for us -- he wills what is best for us. Let us, as St. Basil counsels us, rest secure in the conviction that beyond the possibility of a doubt, God works to effect our welfare, infinitely better than we could ever hope to accomplish or desire it ourselves.

5.Special Practices of Uniformity.

Let us now take up in a practical way the consideration of those matters in which we should unite ourselves to God's will. 1. In external matters.

In times of great heat, cold or rain; in times of famine, epidemics and similar occasions we should refrain from expressions like these: "What unbearable heat!" "What piercing cold!" "What a tragedy!" In these instances we should avoid expressions indicating opposition to God's will. We should want things to be just as they are, because it is God who thus disposes them. An incident in point would be this one: Late one night St. Francis Borgia arrived unexpectedly at a Jesuit house, in a snowstorm. He knocked and knocked on the door, but all to no purpose because the community being asleep, no one heard him. When morning came all were embarrassed for the discomfort he had experienced by having had to spend the night in the open. The saint, however, said he had enjoyed the greatest consolation during those long hours of the night by imagining that he saw our Lord up in the sky dropping snowflakes down upon him.

This week's cover photo is a painting on the panel on the right (facing) side-altar. It is St. Francis of Assisi receiving the answer to his petition directly from a vision of Jesus and the Blessed Virgin Mary for a special Plenary Indulgence that would come to be called the PORTIUNCULA INDULGENCE. St. Francis asked that Catholics who will attend Holy Mass and receive the Eucharist at his Portiuncula Church between sunrise on August 1 and sundown on August 2, while having received the sacrament of Confession and while having prayed the Apostles Creed, the Our Father and a prayer for the Pope's intention are granted the special gift of the remission of sin and also all punishment due to sin. A person can gain such a Plenary Indulgence for himself or for a deceased soul. The indulgence was granted by Our Lord through Pope Honorius III in 1216 and extended to all parish churches in the world. Sacramental Confession can be fulfilled up to 8 days before or 8 days after the day the other obligations are met—in the case of the Portiuncula Indulgence between July 24 and August 9.
